The charges filed against Mrs. Helm are not believed to have had much to do with bringing about this result, the President simply standing by his first appointment, which failed of confirmation by the Senate.

An extension of the French divorce law has just been made by a Paris court. Hitherto the doctrine has been that foreigners can obtain no relief from the French courts, but in the case of a German who had long lived in France, but was not naturalized, the court held that a bona fide resident was entitled to the benefit of the laws. No limit was assigned to the length of residence required.

Value of Fruit.

Fruit is not valued for food as it should be. The common notion that it is too watery to be of great value, except as a relish. The grains, that are nearly free from water, are depended upon for nutrition. The chemists tell us that most kinds of fruit average 83 per cent. water and only 17 per cent. of dry matter. How, it may be asked, can men live on food with so little substance as this? But milk has 87 per cent. of water and is nearly a complete food. It is much more a complete food than whole dry grain would be. Neither flour or meal can be well used unless cooked. For this water is added. Then, in eating bread and puddings, or whatever else is made from flour and meal, more water is drank. If it isn't the food constipates and does not digest properly. One way or another the human system requires a large percentage of water, as, indeed, it is itself largely composed of water. Fruit has a considerable proportion of sweet. This is as nutritious as starch, and more easily digested. When starchy foods are eaten they are changed to sugar by the gastric juices. So far, therefore, the sugar of fruits is already partly digested.

The State Board of Equalization has raised the assessment for Montgomery county, on lands 7 per cent. and on town lots 2 per cent.

POLITENESS

In One Country, But Viewed Very Differently in Others.

"Give me a light, will you please?" asked one man of another in a theatre lobby a few evenings ago.

"With pleasure," said No. 2 knocking the ash from his cigar before presenting it to his friend.

"Thanks," said No. 1, returning the cigar after lighting his cigarette. "It was kind of you to knock the ash off for me, but let me advise you never to do it if you happen to be in the West Indies. They look on that as a deadly insult down there. The Cuban or Jamaican will hand you his cigar with the ash on, and you must slip it off for yourself."

"That reminds me of another curious custom that I came across on the west coast. I was in Lima and my friend took me one night to one of the cafes where they sit around after the theater and drink light wines. There were women in the party, and it fell to me after a time to fill a glass for one of them.

"I was sitting back comfortably in my chair smoking, and without minding my position I carelessly tipped the bottle backward, so as to pour the wine backward."

"Instantly my fair companion flushed deeply, and there was a moment's awkward pause in the conversation. Afterward my Peruvian friend told me that to pour wine for a lady in that fashion was to distinctly slight her."

Shouldn't Have Waited.

The dispenser of the finest brands of Western justice sat on a soap box with a law book spread before him on an up-ended whiskey barrel.

"Who arrested this man?" he asked as the prisoner stood up before him.

"We did," responded half a dozen citizens standing around.

"What's the charge?"

"Hoss stealing!"

"Kin you prove it?" he asked.

"You better life we kin," we ketched him in the act."

The Judge looked wakin.

"Will you swear to it?" he asked.

"Course we will. Didn't we jist tell you we ketched him at it?"

All right, gent's," said the Judge, blandly as he laid his gun across the bar. "I'll fine each and every one of you $10 and costs for contempt of court in fetchin' him here, and dismise the case agin the prisoner. You oughter strung him up when you ketched him."

Was Hypnotized.

Police Judge—You are charged with being drunk. What have you got to say for yourself?"

Prisoner—"Your honor, I was hypnotized by several men. They asked me to take a drink and I couldn't refuse."

Police Judge—"I will do a little hypnotizing myself. Please rejoin in jail for twenty days. See if you can refuse that."—Peck's Sun.

IN THE NECK.

The Income Tax Law Hard Hit by the Supreme Court.

The Justices Divided on Several Material Sections.

A DIVIDED COURT.

The Supreme Court, through Chief Justice Fuller, handed down a decision on the Income Tax Law on Monday last. The Court holds the income tax law to be void as to incomes derived from the rentals of real estate and from State, county and municipal bonds, and valid as to incomes derived from other sources. As to incomes derived from bonds, the court was unanimous. As to incomes derived from rent, Justices Harlan and White dissented. On all other points the court was evenly divided. Justice Jackson being absent and the law, therefore, stands to these points. The Justices who voted to sustain all parts of the law were Fuller, Harlan and White and perhaps Justice Brown.

GIST OF THE OPINION.

First—That by the Constitution Federal taxation is divided into two great classes: Direct taxes and duties, imposts and excises.

Second—The imposition of direct taxes is governed by the rule of apportionment among the several States according to numbers, and the imposition of duties, imposts and excises by the rule of uniformity throughout the United States.

Third—That the principle that taxation and representation go together was intended to be and was preserved in the Constitution by the establishment of the rule of apportionment among the several States, so that such apportionment should be according to numbers in each State.

Fourth—That the States surrendered their power to levy imposts and to regulate commerce to the general Government, and gave it the concurrent power to levy direct taxes in reliance on the protection afforded by the rules prescribed, and that the compromises of the Constitution can not be disturbed by legislative action.

Fifth—That these conclusions result from the text of the Constitution and are supported by the historical evidence furnished by the circumstances surrounding the framing and adoption of that instrument, and the views of those who framed and adopted it.

Sixth—That the understanding and expectation at the time of the adoption of the Constitution was that direct taxes would not be levied upon the general Government except under the pressure of extraordinary exigency and such has been the practice down to August 15, 1894. If the power to do so is to be exercised as an ordinary and usual means of supply, that the fact furnishes an additional reason for circumspection in disposing of the present case.

Seventh—That taxes on real estate belong to the class of direct taxes, and that the taxes on the rent or income of real estate, which is the incident of its ownership, belong to the same class.

Eighth—That by no previous decision of this court has this question been adjudicated to the contrary of the conclusions now announced.

Ninth—That so much of the act of August 15, 1894, as attempts to impose a tax upon the rent or income of real estate without apportionment is invalid.

The court is further of the opinion that the act of August 15, 1894, is invalid so far as it attempts to levy a tax upon the income derived from municipal bonds. As a municipal corporation is not representative of the State Government, the property and revenues of municipal corporations are not the subject of Federal taxation nor is the income derived from State, county and municipal securities, since taxation on the interest therefrom operates on the power to borrow before it is exercised and has a sensible influence on the contract, and therefore such a tax is a tax on the power of the States and their instrumentalities to borrow money and consequently repugnant to the Constitution.

Upon each of the other petitions argued at the bar, to-wit:

First—Whether the void provisions as to rents and incomes from real estate invalidate the whole act;

Second—Whether as to the income from personal property as such the act is unconstitutional as laying direct taxes;

Third—Whether any part of the tax if not considered as a direct tax, is invalid for want of uniformity—the Justices who heard the arguments are equally divided, and therefore, no opinion is expressed. The result is that the decree of the Circuit Court is reversed and the case remanded with directions to enter a decree in favor of complainant in respect only to the voluntary payment of the tax on the rents and income of its real estate and that which it holds in trust and on the income from the municipal bonds owned or so held by it.

The effect of all the opinions delivered is to show that the court was unanimous in the opinion that the law is unconstitutional as to municipal and State bonds; that Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Field, Gray, Brewer, Brown and Shiras held it to be invalid on incomes derived from rents, and that Justices Harlan and White dissented from this opinion as to rents. It is impossible to state the exact division as to the validity of the other parts of the law further than was disclosed by the proceedings. It appears quite clear that Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan and White voted to sustain the other parts of the law, and the best opinion obtainable is that Justice Brown stood with them in this opinion, which would leave Justices Field, Gray, Brewer and Shiras as the opponents of the law as a whole.

BEAUTY

Turned to a Practical Account By Two Women.

The young men about town have two new stories which they are repeating to each other.

One is about a pretty cashier and the other is about a pretty woman who is frequently seen among the shoppers on Whitehall street. One merit of the stories is that they are strictly true.

"It's this way," said a young man yesterday, "the women are so comfoundedly pretty that they hypnotize the men. The pretty cashier always gives back the right change except when the customer happens to be the sort of man who imagines himself a lady-killer; then she tosses it down about a dollar short. She gives him a smile with his short change that is worth fully $4. The man smiles, and though he discovers that his change is shy a few cents, he never says a word. If he did, why, of course, the young lady would be surprised and would make it up. But she's so showed that she never misjudges a man. She sizes up the men right every time, and not once in a hundred times do the men say a word. They are tickled to death at having the young lady smile on them so sweetly, and had rather give up the whole amount than make a kick."

"The other woman is a professional shopper, and she's a stunner in looks. She goes into a store and calls for something—she never buys a costly thing. The clerk brings out what she calls for and displays it on the counter. She examines it and throws in bright remarks and makes eyes at the clerk—in short, she gives the young fellow to understand that she is dreadfully smitten on him. He feels like hugging himself. The lady buys the article, of course, and lingers a few minutes to talk with the clerk after it is wrapped up. Her smiles and her eyes completely hypnotize him, and after a short time she walks out in an abashed mind, having forgotten to pay for her purchase. Of course the clerk never says a word. He just makes out a ticket and has it charged up to himself. This lady never makes mistakes. If she should happen to strike a clerk some day who was not susceptible to mashes, why, she'd simply look embarrassed and say: "How funny! Excuse my mistake—think of me forgetting to pay you. I am so absent-minded!" But the clerks never give her an opportunity to say that.—Atlanta Constitution.

Carefulness in Little Things.
"I think it's all right for the bank president with a salary of $40,000 a year to spend half a day looking for a lost pocket," said Mr. Billtops. "It wouldn't do for a man in his place to let the bad example of being careless set the bad example of being careless about little things, but when Mrs. Billtops spoils a two-dollar pair of gloves trying to pick up a penny it always kinds of irritates me."

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter four years old. Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly until she was a mere "handful of bones."—Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial free at W. S. Lloyd's drugstore.

Irish is spreading in the schools of Ireland; 1,051 candidates presented themselves for examination in their native tongue last year as compared with 831 the year before. The number of schoolmasters who obtained certificates to teach Irish doubled. Irish was taught in eleven new board schools, and the sale of books of the Society for the Preservation of the Irish Language was greatly increased.

A Warren county farmer called on Col. Crump at Bowling Green the other day and offered to equip the cars on the proposed street car line that city with his perpetual motion machine as a motor. He thinks he has solved the problem, and Col. Crump closed a contract with him to attach his motors to the cars. The success of the new motor is to be demonstrated before April 15.

The Norwegian steamship Spero which arrived at Philadelphia Wednesday, brought confirmation of the report that a large rebel force had been landed by a British schooner at the north of Cuba. The schooner was foundered, but all the insurgents reached the island, and, after a fight with the Spanish troops, proceeded overland toward Santiago. The crew was captured and sent to dungeons, but the Captain was shot and instantly killed.

A London firm of clerical tailors have sent out this circular: "At the request of many of our customers we have added to our old-established clerical clothing and church furnishing business a department for the sale, purchase or exchange of adwovens. The above division of our business will include a record of curates desiring change and incumbents requiring temporary or permanent help."

Mr. Harry de Windt, who has traveled extensively in Siberia, in lecturing recently on "The Prisons of Siberia," in London, said that there were about 230 prisons in that country, two-thirds of which are rearing places along the great post road to the Pacific. To these about 17,000 persons a year have been sent from Russia during the past fifteen years. The silver mines of Nerchinsk, near the Chinese frontier, are the only ones built; the food and clothing good and sufficient. The condition of the mines is substantially the same as that of English miners, except that they do less work.

HAS HAD ENOUGH.

President Cleveland Does Not Want a Third Term.

(Washington Dispatch to the Chicago Times-Herald.)

One of President Cleveland's intimate friends said he did not believe Mr. Cleveland would accept the nomination for a third term even if the nomination and election were tendered him together. "Mr. Cleveland," said this friend, "is very tired of public service, and was not anxious even for a second term. He is now so nearly worn out mentally and physically that he is looking forward with fond anticipations to the day which will mark his release from his most onerous task. I am sure that nothing but an overwhelming conviction of duty to the country and the party could ever induce him to run again for the Presidency. If the President should be nominated it will come through fate and through no seeking or desire of his."

It is well-known here that Mrs. Cleveland is very tired of being the wife of the President, and that she looks forward with great joy to the time when she can once more be plain Mrs. Cleveland. As the wife of the President, Mrs. Cleveland leads a life that is dreadfully monotonous. She is debared from general society, and can accept no hospitality except from the members of the Cabinet, and Cabinet dinners are pretty dreary affairs because all the members know one another so thoroughly before the first season is half over that they get tired of the same society before the list has been exhausted. The wives of the members of the Cabinet are the best of it socially; out shopping, at the theater or in any public place, Mrs. Cleveland's every movement is watched so that her whole life is more or less artificial and subjects her to constant constraint. Mrs. Cleveland would no doubt be glad to leave the White House behind her. She is fully convinced that it is not a place of happiness.

The Friend of the Dentist.

The world is full of people who appear to think that if a little of anything good, a great deal is so much better. One of the popular errors in this line is the excessive care people take of their teeth. With large hard brushes they scrub and scrape the teeth, irritating the gums and often detaching them from the roots. This sets up inflammation, and that hopeless disease known as absorption soon begins its ravages. It is said that there is no permanent cure for this trouble, once it is well underway. Very soft brushes and small ones are the best for cleaning the teeth, and they must be carefully washed after using. Many times disease germs have been propagated in toothbrushes. An eminent authority says that if toothbrushes were frequently washed in strong salt water there would be less disease than at present. Salt is a great destroyer of bacteria, and the human family would be much better off if more general use were made of it.—N. Y. Ledger.

The Delineator for April

Is called the Spring Announcement Number, and is a most excellent specimen of this most popular woman's magazine. Supplementary to the regular issue of patterns there is a timely article on bicycling, with illustrations of costumes, that will interest all lovers of the wheel. The papers on the Voice, which were interrupted by the illness of the author, are resumed; and there is begun a most practical series on Preservation and Renovation, the first installment treating of the putting away and care of furs. Mrs. Roger A. Pryor writes very entertainingly on the etiquette of first calls and introductions, giving the accepted usages and formulas; and the second paper on "The Experiences of a Training School Life" increases the interest already felt by the subject. The Dean of Bernard College contributes a charmingly written article on a Girl's Life and Work at the University of Chicago, of which she was a Fellow, 1893-94; Belle Pierson Springer writes forcibly of Type setting as an employment for women; and Sara Miller Kirby gives further instruction in Kindergarten Teaching. How to Make Dolls Houses is shown in Crepe and Tissue papers, new and exceedingly pretty designs are given in Venetian Iron Work, Knitting, Tatting, Netting and Crocheting, and the chapter on Burnt Leather Works gives illustrations and information of the necessary tools implements and advice to beginners. The Cookery article gives recipes for some new dishes, there is a paper on the Serving of Pineapples and Grape Fruit, one on Table Decoration, and the usual contribution on Floral Culture. Around the Tea-Table is bright and entertaining, Mother and Son is earnest and instructive, and a Novel Samagundi Party suggests a delightful evening's amusement. There is also a review of The Newest Books, some Instrumental Music and an Easter Carol.

For Digestibility of Certain Foods. The rule should be to chew each mouthful as long as there are any lumps or portions, even the smallest, not reduced. One can easily digest the toughest potato if he will only take the pains, however much trouble it may be, to thoroughly and completely reduce it before swallowing. Corn and beans enjoy the reputation of being very hard to digest, simply because so many persons will not take the trouble to hunt out each separate grain and grind it up. (So of the great bugbear, newly-baked bread and hot cakes.) A hard-boiled egg is considered indigestible, and it is so only because its toughness gives it resistance to the process of mastication; while a raw or set-boiled egg, or one boiled a long time until it becomes "mealy," is quite easy of digestion.—Medical World.

N. F. PIERCE.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction.

I am candidate for the nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention.

C. W. FOWLER.

HIS PLATFORM.

Foundation.—First course: The freedom of a Republic depends upon the general intelligence of its citizens.

Second course: This general intelligence can be obtained in no other way than through the public school.

Third course: It is the duty of the State to establish and maintain an efficient system of free public schools.

Fourth plank: Better and cheaper school books.

Fifth plank: Opposition to school supply trusts of every description.

Sixth plank: The enforcement of all penalties for neglect of duty by school officials of every class.

Seventh plank: I shall shape my work in accordance with the above principles.

C. W. FOWLER.

We have the profoundest respect for the honest opinions of all men, but we have no patience with loud unthoughtful arrogance which carries with it the vain expression of "I thank God that I am not as other men are."

Such slosh calls this from true men. We love truth to that degree that we have nothing but contempt for the counterfeit and pity for the poor, miserable born Montgomery citizens, but when we made this county our home we became identified with all interests of her people.

The Court of Appeals says the law imposing upon foreign corporations the penalty of a forfeiture of charter for refusing to submit their litigation to the State courts is contrary to the Constitution of the United States.

President Cleveland will promptly pay his income tax. In his "return" to the department he denounces himself as a "citizen at large."

It is a hard necessity that forces a man to antagonize those in authority. We find ourselves in this position and freely acknowledge it is not to our liking. We have rather roughly criticised our Circuit Judge. We are sorry he has made it necessary for us to do so. What he has said and done stands. What we have written is equally ineradicable. But whatever may be our justification for what we wrote in criticism of him, (and we believe as do nearly all the better element of the county that we are amply justified in our course,) yet it is none the less dangerous for a newspaper to antagonize a court of justice, let the provocation be ever so great, for the lawless element will at once assume that such paper with whatever influence it may have is backing up antagonism to constituted authority. A Judge upon the bench has the right to expect that all those claiming to be good men and true, will give him their support and encouragement in the difficult, and often times perplexing, situation in which he is placed in the discharge of his duty. The good men and true of the community have the right to demand of the Judge upon the bench that he will so keep himself free of all entanglements as to stand at all times before them with clean hands and stainless ermine. The Judge who fills these conditions and lacks the support of the good and the true has yet to be born.

When Judge Cooper came to Montgomery county to make it his home there was not a man in the district who would have had the ghost of a chance to carry the county against him. The best men in the county freely gave him their confidence and esteem. To-day we do not believe he could be elected Constable in one of the outlying districts. Why this change? Whose fault? Either this great number of good men have changed for the bad or they believe one man has. Which is the more reasonable position?

Let us Have Peace.

Factional politics seems to hold wrapped in its folds more malignant bitterness and brutal hatred than almost any other phase of contention. The Goebel-Sanford killing at Corington is an object lesson to be carefully coneyed by some in our own county. It would be no bad thing for some of those engaged in the miserable factional fights here, to call a halt in the pure cussedness that is driving straight toward a repetition of the Swope-Goodloe or Goebel-Sanford tragedies. In this last exhibition of brutalized hate one of the actors lies cold in death, and the survivor has committed a crime, if not a crime.

suicide, and has forever murdered all his own peace and happiness, and to-day if choice could be given, he would be as willing to fill his victim's shoes as his own.

It seldom happens that a quarrel exists where all the fault is on one side. But whether in the fight in this county this be so or no, much more can be accomplished by forbearance and toleration than by vituperation and ready retaliation for real or fancied injuries. It is not patriotic, it is not honorable, it is not honest for men claiming to be Democrats to sink party success in a mad desire to gain a personal advantage. Such a course can only end in party disaster and personal degradation and dismay if not worse. Let us have peace.

Too, Utterly Too Too!

In his charge to the grand jury on Monday last, Judge Cooper took occasion to remark, among other nice things he had to say of himself, he had never in all his life been guilty of one thing of which he is ashamed. What a comfortable feeling that must be. But then how lonesome he must feel after all. We suppose he is the only man in all the world who can truthfully say so much. Certainly he is the only one with whom we are acquainted, or of whom we have heard, that can present to himself such a nosegay. The Judge's self-gratulatory speech reminds us of the preacher who met Judge Wm. Lindsay about the time the papers of the country were full of the exposures of the Tweed Ring rottenness. He was a man of pure heart and trusting disposition and as free from guile as is Judge Cooper. The good man exclaimed:

"Judge Lindsay, it surely is not possible that these terrible charges against Tweed and his party are true? Are they not all Democrats?"

"My very reverend friend," said the Judge, "I fear you are too good a man to live in this world. I once was a Whig, but now am a Democrat, and I grieve to say that from long observation I have become convinced that it is within the range of possibility for a Democrat to do wrong."

Whenever any one, be he whom he may, come from where he will, attacks and as we believe, misrepresents our country and our people, the Advocate shall feel called upon to defend our country and our people.

The Two-Times-in-Four-Weeks, under the lash of its boss, the Judge, springs to his defense with an attack on the Advocate. Excuse us, all the advertising space we have to spare is being paid for.

Rapid Progress.

Although it is only about thirty days since John P. Martin began to break ground for our new modern Works and Electric Lighting plant, he already has the former building changed and remodeled to be used to the best possible advantage in connection with another equally large brick addition, which is being roofed in now for the big 250 horsepower Lane & Bradley Corliss engine and the electrical apparatus room, while one of the large apartments of the former building will be used for the pumping machinery.

The other end next to the railroad track has been filled up almost solid with heavy rock masonry to support the two fine 150 horsepower boilers, both of which attracted everyone's attention upon their arrival here from Pennsylvania Saturday morning, as being the largest ever seen in these parts. Mr. Martin, the tireless and active hustler in personal changes, assures us that all his contracts for material and supplies are now made with the leading manufacturers in the South, East and West.

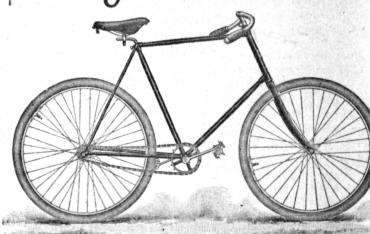

The big Corliss engine will be finished and shipped within the next two weeks, by which time William Bros. will have the boilers enclosed as per their contract. In the meantime the Wood Electrical Machinery will be finished and shipped from Fort Wayne, Ind., as also the fine new cedar poles, wires, etc., will be here from Chicago, so that the new electric plant will be tested and turned over within the next thirty days, and this accomplished, the old plant will be shipped away and work will then begin in earnest on the fine new system of water works, which Mr. Martin says when completed shall be second to none of his numerous plants in the several States where he has been constructing for 25 years. The best evidence of which statement is borne out by the fact that yet in the prime of life he has decided to make this a monument and settle down here with it and his family to live, and watch over the crowning effort of his life in the line of his chosen vocation.

So it would seem after all that a long suffering and patient public are to be awarded with good steady light and clear sparkling water, both of which are much needed and will be liberally patronized, not only as a convenience, but absolute necessity as well. No more factories will have to locate elsewhere in order to get a water supply, nor will those we now have be compelled to shut down or haul water after the next three months.

The exercises at the Methodist church Sunday morning consisted of short addresses from some of the members, bearing upon the several phases of church work. These were interspersed and enlivened with beautiful selections by the choir. The service, while a little out of the ordinary, was a delightfully pleasant one to all in attendance.

The growth of our subscription list is unprecedented, and we desire to again thank the people for their favors. We will continue to use our best efforts to so improve each subsequent issue of the ADVOCATE, so that every citizen of the county will feel that they cannot do without it. The services at the First Presbyterian church, both morning and evening were well attended—quite a large congregation being present in the evening. The pastor, Rev. A. J. Arrick, preached on both occasions on the subject of the Resurrection. His sermons were highly commended. The extra attraction at night was a solo written by Mr. Arrick and sung by Miss Ayers. She also sang a most artistic production of Brumhausen. Mr. Neville played two very attractive numbers, and the opening piece by the Orchestra, a Tyrolean air, was exquisitely rendered.

In this issue is an advertisement of William Bros. The men composing this firm were raised among the people with whom they are doing business and their success serves as a fitting illustration as to merit. A few years ago they started out in business poor boys. Nothing has been given them. Hard work, close application, honest dealings, good work and economy have brought them to where they are now. They make their living off of our people and their necessities are distributed among them. They are the kind of a firm to be patronized for this reason and besides their work meets with favorable comment everywhere. Especially they invite the people's attention to their stock of hardware and pumps and also to their superior facilities for putting on all kinds of metal and slate roofs. They are also contractors and builders and Mr. Ed William has the advantage of being a very fine architect.

Next year will be the last leap year of the century, and another will not occur until 1991. The year 1999 will not be a leap year. The unusual occurrence is due to the fact that the addition of one day to each fourth year more than makes up the presumed deficiency in the calendar year, and consequently the world is constantly losing time, as a watch loses it, and therefore, there is danger that in the course of a few thousand years our Fourth of July will come on Christmas.

Practical advantage has already been taken by the British postal authorities of the new method of telegraphy without wires. The cable from Scotland to the Isle of Mull was broken for a week, and during that time the inhabitants remained in electrical communication with the land by means of an induction apparatus. The distance from the mainland is two miles. There were already wires along the island coast, a parallel wire was erected on the coast mainland, and the messages sent over it were read by a telephone connection with the wire on the island, and vice versa.

That our opinion of the color of an object is formed by our perceiving that certain constituents are absent in it, is the conclusion reached by Herr Wiegman in a paper before the Berlin Physical Society. Experimenting with oil lamps provided with pure red, green and blue screens, he found that when white light was rightly excluded the observers lost all sense of color, and could distinguish only shades of black and white in objects in the room. A scale of colors illuminated by red light showed the reds as white or gray; when blue light was added the reds became yellow and could not be distinguished from the yellow on the scale.

NEWS OF LENZ.

The Editor of Outing Says the Cyclist is a Captive.

Dr. J. H. Worman, editor of Outing, has received a cable dispatch that Bi-cyclist Frank G. Lenz had been traced to a Kurd village about eight miles from Erzerum. He reached there May 10, 1894, and the villagers say he was murdered. Lenz arrived at Chigiani, a little after sundown, on May 9. He was the guest of a man named Aya Bysragh, and was in good health and spirits. In the evening a number of villagers called on him and his wonderful machine. He left early the next morning. About a month later the villagers heard that he had been killed in the vicinity of a village named Kurdali, one of three villages Lenz would have to pass in crossing the mountains to the Delibaba pass. These Armenian villages are now in ruins. The Turkish soldiers massacred the Armenians just about the time Lenz was in that vicinity.

Dr. Worman does not believe that Lenz was murdered. "I think Lenz was carried away by the Kurds into captivity and they are waiting for him to be ransomed."

Burglary as a Science.

The chief tools of the burglar are the "jimmy," nippers and "drag." In addition to this there will be a series of drills, punches, wedges and a brace and bits. The drills and bits will be of all sizes, running from those almost as small as a needle, up to powerful ones an inch or two thick. A complete assortment of these tools is hard to get, and when the kit is made complete it is highly prized by the owner. They are taken to a blacksmith separately, and tempered to an extreme hardness. No one would suspect the purpose for which they are designed. Other forgers make the nippers and "jimmy." The latter is a steel bar of great strength and fineness, but is divided into sections, so that it can be unceremoniously carried with greater convenience. The nippers resemble a pair of curling tongs, with sharp little teeth for catching hold of keys that are in the locks inside the house. By means of the nippers the key is not only shoved inside, but it is actually used to unlock the door before being removed. The custom of leaving the key in the lock as a precaution against burglars, who are reputed to carry false keys with them, is really one of great help to professional robbers instead of a hindrance.

The "drag" is the most powerful little instrument that the professional burglar carries, and its construction is a marvel of simplicity, ingenuity and strength. By means of it the most powerful safes are opened within a few minutes, and without so much noise as to attract the attention of policemen outside of the building. This instrument is being improved as safe-makers endeavor to make receptacles for valuables more trustworthy and difficult to break open. So far, the burglars have kept pace with the safe-makers, and with every improvement made by the latter the former are sure to circumvent it in some way.

The Bobby's Surprise.

The big Reserve policeman who stands at Front and Chestnut had his attention drawn last evening to a man who was lying asleep on some barrels on Front street, just below Chestnut. The genial officer gave a few raps with his club on the soles of the man's feet, but evoked no response. Somewhat surprised, he repeated the dose, and the man gave signs of returning to consciousness. He looked lazily about at the crowd, stretched himself, and then rose slowly to his feet. Apparently still half asleep, he gave a yawn, and then suddenly shot out at his right hand and caught the surprised policeman on the nose. The blood flew, the crowd laughed, and the policeman took revenge by administering with his club a sound beating before ringing for a patrol wagon.

THE ADVOCATE.

The detailed report of the Health Department shows that Brooklyn is healthier than any other of the world's great cities.

The Michigan Senate has passed a bill to repeal the law under which Roman Catholic bishops can hold church property in trust.

William Shipp, of Midway, has surrendered to the authorities at Lexington, to be tried for the murder of Samuel Brown, of color.

Heavy importations of rice through the port of Savannah are disturbing planters in that section. The imported rice comes from Japan.

English coal mines produced 188,277,525 tons of coal in 1874, exceeding the highest previous record, that of 1891, by nearly three million tons.

The Woman's Literary Club, of Baltimore, has withdrawn from the National Federation of Women on account of the admission of clubs of colored women.

Cold Stream, the celebrated thoroughbred farm near Lexington, formerly the property of Major J. C. Clark, has been sold to Col. J. E. Delph, for $15,000.

Padewski is sharing his honors in Paris with M. Zeldner, a Dutch pianist who is coming soon to America, and whom the Paris critics compare to Rubinstein.

English Catholics, headed by the Duke of Norfolk, the Marquis of Ripon and Lord Chief Justice Russell, are trying to remove at Rome the prohibition to Roman Catholics to enter Oxford and Cambridge.

Miss Faithful Higgins, by will last week, admitted to probate at Mayville left to the Missionary Society of the Christian church, of Kentucky, 200 acres of Mason county land. The property is to be sold and the money given to the society.

The Surgeon General of the Marine Hospital service has issued a statement giving the death rate during 1894 in 200 cities of the United States. The highest is that of Brownville, Texas, 44.32. The lowest is that of Sioux Falls, S. D., 4.49.

A company will be organized at Knoxville to dam the Tennessee River above that city. The power of the river can then be utilized for manufacturing plants, which will locate along the river banks. The cost will only be one-third as much as for steam power.

During the past year $19,967.116 was given by private gifts and bequests to colleges, museums, churches, libraries, art galleries and other helpful agencies. In 1893 these free gifts reached the colossal figure of $33,319,866. These statistics do not include sums less than $1,000.

Bat Masterson is dead. The man whom all the bullets of angry and drunken cowboys could not kill, has succumbed at Guthrie, O. T., according to advice just received, of quick consumption. He had been United States Marshal and was City Marshal of Dodge City in its wildest days.

The sad news comes from Danville that the Hon. Proctor Knott has been smitten with admiration for a book called "Colin's Financial School," and his conversion is fully announced in Harrodsburg "Sayings." Perhaps the book may now be made a textbook of political economy in Danville College.—Louisville Post.

The discovery has been made that the election law passed by the last North Carolina Legislature repeals all the city and town election laws enacted since 1883 and provides no substitutes. In cities which this new law may affect, and whose charters may not have been amended by the late Legislature, there will be no city government unless there is a provision of law for the present municipal authorities to hold over.

A suit to secure another decision upon the constitutionality of the income tax law has been commenced in the Circuit Court at New York. The suit is against the Illinois Central Railway Company, the plaintiff being a stockholder, and the complaint is similar to that made in the suit just decided by the Supreme Court. The object of the opponents of the law is to bring it before the court with a full bench, being expected that before the case is reached Justice Jackson will be able to resume his duties.

Monthly Crop Report.

The outlook for the farmer at the beginning of last winter was not very encouraging—the long drought had, in many places, ruined his prospect for a crop, and the continued dry weather made it almost impossible until very late to sow his small grain for another year; consequently, the plant was very small and tender to encounter a long and hard winter. They were most all overstocked with all kinds of farm stock, and it was a questionable matter with them, on account of the low price, as to whether they would buy feed for them or allow them to rough it the best they could—on account of which a great many correspondents write that there have been some horses and cattle and a great many sheep have died. But the prospects for all kinds of stock and farm products are brightening, and the farmers are feeling better. The crop of small grain has come through the winter much better than was expected; the demand has increased, prices have advanced and the indications are that the price will be better this harvest than last. Cattle, hogs and sheep are all in demand, and at remunerative prices. As to the present condition of wheat, nearly all correspondents write the plant is small but looks thrifty, and is beginning to show up pretty well. There is some difference of opinion as to whether the snow was advantageous to the wheat—usually wheat will make some growth under snow, but the weather was so intensely cold that the ground froze under the snow, which stopped the growth and caused some wheat to perish; but it is reasonable to suppose that a larger portion would have died had it not been covered with snow. The condition is 90 per cent.

RYE.

The correspondents report rye has suffered worse than wheat, which is not unusually the case, as it is considered a heartier crop. There was more sown than usual last year, and I suppose was pastured more than wheat. The condition is 83 per cent.

OATS.

Have all been sown and in fine condition. The weather has been favorable and the ground worked well. The acreage, as compared with 1894, is 97 per cent.

BARLEY.

Looks unusually well in some places. Very few counties report it. Condition as to a full crop is 89 per cent.

HOGS.

Only a few counties report an average number of hogs, and assign the principal causes for the shortage, scarcity of feed, which many farmers believe causes cholera and the great loss of pigs during the winter. Quite a number of counties report loss from cholera. The gross reports show a shortage since last year of 1,040,682 head. The comparative number of hogs in Kentucky as reported is 90 per cent.

SHEEP.

The interest in sheep has been very much neglected for several years; so much so, that the number has been greatly reduced. And as to the comparative number of lambs, nearly all correspondents complain of the great loss from the cold weather and from the ewes not having anything but dry food.

The gross report shows a decrease in the number of sheep since last year of 755,953 head. The comparative number of lambs in market is placed at 73 per cent.

CATTLE.

The farmers who fed cattle last winter have all done well. Quite a number of sales have been made at prices ranging from 4½ to 5½ cents per pound. Inquired of the correspondents as to the comparative number of two-year-old cattle for grass this spring. The per cent. is placed at 99. The gross report shows the decrease in cattle since last year to be 2,243,952 head.

HORSES.

There are reports from nearly every part of the State of some diseases among horses, and in many counties have not wintered well. More than an unusual number have died—pneumonia, distemper and pink eye being the principal diseases. The gross report shows a decrease in number from 1893 to 1894, to be 122,693 head, and from 1894 to 1895, 187,825 head.

MULES.

There is shown to be a slight decrease in the number of mules and a large decrease in the average price. Decrease from $62.17 in 1894 to $47.55 same date in 1895.

Similarity of Proverbs.

The following are familiar specimens of Chinese proverbs. The English version is given also in each instance:

"To cut off a hen's head with a battle-axe." (Much ado about nothing.)
 "It thunders loudly, but little rain falls." (Much cry and little wool.)
 "A thousand chiefs, a thousand plans." (Too many cooks will spoil the broth.)
 "There's a time to fish and a time to dry nets." (There's a time for all things.)
 "One strand of silk doesn't make a thread." (One swallow doesn't make a summer.)
 "If you don't enter the tiger's den, you cannot obtain her young." (Nothing ventured, nothing won.)
 "The court is like a ship at sea—everything depends on the wind." (But not your trust in promises.)
 "Time flies like an arrow, days and months like a weaver's shuttle." (Time and tide wait for no man.)
 "For him who does everything in its proper time, one day is worth three." (A stitch in time saves nine.)
 "Virtue is the surest road to longevity, but vice meets with a early doom. (Virtue is its own reward.)
 "The truths which we least wish to hear are those which are most to our advantage to know." (The truth is disagreeable.)
 "Abstain from false accusing, that the good and honest may be in safety." (Bear not false witness against thy neighbor.)—Tid-Bits.

That Hair Spring.

Congressman Sibley, of Pennsylvania, was recently asked his opinion of the man in charge of a certain bill. He replied: "He is all right I guess, but he reminds me very much of a man in Pennsylvania. He came from the lumber district with an old bullock's head on his back, and said, 'I want you to fix my watch.' The jeweler asked, 'what is the matter with your watch?' 'Well,' replied the man, 'I have been looking into it, and I can't tell exactly, but as near as I can make out I guess the trouble it is that the hair is all worn off the hair spring.'—Buffalo Times.

THE SHEPARD OF HIS FLOCK.

An Indiana Preacher Sues Saloon-Keepers Because Church Members Got Drunk.

The Rev. J. H. Weston, a prominent Indiana Methodist clergyman, has filed suit against the saloon-keepers at Cheston, Porter county. Members of the pastor's congregation have often victims to the drink habit, and Weston will now retaliate by bringing suit against the liquor dealers for heavy damages.

Bridget hits her head against the stove and cries out with pain. She applies Dr. Fenners' Golden Relief and the pain is gone. Johnny awoke in the morning and found the pain in his stomach the cherries had brought on. A teaspoonful of the Relief is given. Immediately Johnny is drawing.

The sick mother, just returned from her Southern trip, is no better. The "hectic flush" is still on her cheek and from hangs over the family circle. The Golden Relief is used a month, and a cure results. The explanation is: Golden Relief cures inflammation. No inflammation, no sore from burn, no hurt from chafe, no consumption. Contains no opium, no action on mineral poisons, safe and certain. One tablespoonful cures La Grippe in seven days or less. Money refunded if satisfaction not given. Take a little home today.

The weekly reviews of trade by the commercial agencies show that the improvement of general business reported during the past month is maintained, in spite of the actual or threatened trouble over wages. During the week about twelve thousand workers have been thrown out of employment by strikes. Retail trade, on the whole, is improved, though still behind the purchases of jobbers. Prices of commodities, for the first time in a long while, average higher than last year and cotton is buoyant.
